The Lord High Admiral, Plymouth

The covered Beer Garden of the Lord High Admiral in Stonehouse, Plymouth had a blue painted floor that the owner had to repaint every year due to it chipping away. He wanted a long-term solution and had seen a LeesonBound installation created by Wayne Hambly at South West Surfacing Specialists, so he turned to him for advice. Wayne created a new blend of aggregate called 'Espresso', a mixture of grey and yellow, that complemented the colour scheme perfectly. Now the beer garden has a hard wearing, long lasting and low maintenance solution that the owner is delighted with.
